Wainwright Farmers Endorse Reciprocity Agreement

Local Branch of United Farmers of Alberta Formed Here Last Saturday--Guy W. Johnston, District Organizer from Provost, Explains Objects of Organization--Farmers Display Great Enthusiasm--Frank Rack as President.

The meeting of the district farmers, held in Washburn & Mills hall on Saturday last, for the purpose of organizing a branch association of the United Farmers of Alberta was well attended by a good representation of the local farmers. Mr. Fred Akyroyd, being in the chair, Guy W. Johnston, District Organizer from Provost, was introduced, who outlined the purposes and work being carried on by the United Farmers of Alberta in other parts of the province. Mr. Johnston stated that the policy of the association was to keep as far from politics as possible and not carry on the organization under any party lines. Both parties could reserve their old views and policies, in regard to politics and he wished to make it plain that it was non-political association, where party ories could do no injury. The benefits of the organization were evidenced by the good that was being done the farmers generally.

The purposes of the association were many fold, with the aim of forwarding the interests of the farmer, with an endeavor to reduce the excessive freight rates of the railways, which have been fattening on the western farmer; to open up new markets and develop old ones; to report markets, in order that farmers may operate intelligently; to educate the inexperienced; the education of the farmer in his responsibility to Society; to watch all legislation, with no class legislation; to promote special intercourse and take the place of other assemblies, when the association becomes a centre seen to better effect farther back from lines of railway, when disputes can be settled amicably and without arbitration; an actual banking system; to hold meetings in the interests of the farmer where no agricultural society is formed; to endeavor to secure better prices for grain, better the handling by the elevator companies is costly and expensive.

The matter of Government owned elevators was dealt with to considerable length by Mr. Johnston and several questions, asked by those attending the meeting. The speaker thought that from test, this system of operating elevators had proved unsatisfactory, as evidenced by the purchase of several by the Manitoba Government. In regard to the Grain Growers' Delegation, which had waited upon Sir Wilfred Laurier, just fall, many thought that the farmers had received a straight throwdown, but the speaker was of the opinion that almost every demand had been now complied with in the reciprocity agreement.

Jarrow Journal In Class With Any

It has been frequently expressed by travellers and local business men, who have visited the thriving little village that Jarrow possesses the most lively boosters of any town along the line for its age. These statements were certainly verified when on Thursday last, a newspaper made its first appearance from that community, known as the Jarrow Journal.

The new-born youngster is a good one and well up to the standard of towns much larger than Jarrow. The newspaper reflects much credit upon the inhabitants of the town, and goes to show that the place contains a class of enthusiasts and firm believers, who intend to place their prosperous town and district in the public eye.

Mr. P. E. Ross returned on Monday from a week's business trip to Winnipeg.

Cattley & Gregson Will Build Garage

In order to provide for the several automobiles, which will be in the town during the coming summer, Cattley & Gregson have decided to build a garage, adjacent to their livery barn on Third Avenue. Although, they are undecided as yet, where the location of the building will be, it is definitely announced that the construction of the garage will commence in the course of a few weeks. While in conversation with Mr. George Gregson, the Star learned that the building will be built of brick with a cement foundation and pit to provide for the convenient overhauling of machines from beneath.

P. D. Laird returned home on Sunday last, from Winnipeg, where he has been for the past month.

Fine Exhibit of Paintings at H.C. King's

Mrs. Fred W. Akyroyd has Large Variety of Water Colour and Oil Paintings on Exhibition at H. C. King's--Will Start Painting Classes in Near Future

The exhibit of pictures, painted by Mrs. Fred Akyroyd, being shown at the jewellery store of H. C. King, are attracting the attention of all lovers of art. The paintings cover a variety of subjects in both oil and water color. Two very fine unmounted country scenes in water color deserve special notice. The drawing and perspective is good and the bold, clear way the colors are blended go to show that Mrs. Akyroyd is more than an amateur artist. Three landscapes, mounted in gold frames are very pleasing and attractive. Many useful articles for the decoration of the home are also exhibited, in a fine display of cushion covers and tops.

As an animal painter, Mrs. Akyroyd is also very effective. Several buffalo pictures and two dog studies in oils are very cleverly painted. These pictures are now being sold by Mr. King and there is a good opportunity for those who would have good decorations for their homes. Paintings, like good books, always have an upward tendency. It is an old saying that you can judge a man by the pictures he hangs upon his walls, for they reflect his taste, education and training.

It is Mrs. Akyroyd's intention to start painting classes in the near future and the people of the town and especially the younger class should embrace the opportunity, being offered by such instruction.

Live Ashes are Source of Danger

During the gale, which blow on Monday evening, a disaster was perhaps saved when T. G. Cook, while on his way to supper, noticed sparks and live ashes flying around in the wind. Ashes had been thrown out by several parties on Third Avenue and had it not been noticed in time, the piles of straw, near at hand might have been ignited and in such a wind as was blowing, nothing in the world could have saved the whole business section of the town from destruction. Similar cases have been reported of late, as happening in the congested portion of Second Avenue and it is clearly evident that everyone in the town should be more careful and take the greatest precautions possible, especially at this time of the year. Live ashes have been the cause of many disasters in other towns and cities and it is to be hoped that when ashes are dumped, every means will be taken so as not to endanger property.

What Will Kaid Belton Say to This?

Recent Uprising in Morocco Against Ruling Sultan. Placed on Throne by Kaid Belton--Perhaps the Kaid Will Leave for Scene of Revolt.

Another uprising has taken place in Morocco and by far the most serious revolt which has taken place since the ruling Sultan was placed on the throne, through the former commander-in-chief of the army, Kaid Belton. Communication with all the leading centres is cut off and the French officers and court officials have been compelled to take refuge near the coast. The Sultan's army has been defeated and dispersed, also retreating towards the coast.

It will be remembered by the Star readers that during last August Kaid Belton made his first appearance in Wainwright and the sensation created by the presence of such a noted man was much talked of. Since then he has visited the town many times and has formed a large circle of acquaintances. What the former commander-in-chief of the Moroccan army will now do is unknown, for it has been thought since his first appearance that he was in the west for a purpose and it was generally known that his absence from Morocco was compulsory and demanded by the French, whose forces are now in the country. It is not at all improbable that Kaid Belton will leave Canada and take command of the forces once more. But on the other hand, it may be impossible to even conjecture what the great warrior intends doing, when the man for whom he fought is the center of revolts from his people. The French, since their appearance in Morocco, have been exceedingly unpopular and it is thought that the uprising is due to their stringent military subjection. However, the moves of Kaid Belton will be watched with interest and it would not be at all surprising to see him sail for the scene of the revolution.

Sudden Call to Deathbed of Father

H. V. and C. G. Fieldhouse leave for Neepawa to Attend Funeral of Father on Monday Last--Was a strong Temperance Advocate and Church Worker.

The death occurred at Neepawa, Manitoba on Friday last of Mr. M. W. Fieldhouse, father of C. G. and H. V. Fieldhouse of this town and Mrs. B. M. Collette of Irma. On Thursday afternoon, Mr. H. V. Fieldhouse left for the bedside of his sick father, but before he had arrived a telegram was received here, with information of the sad death. Friday afternoon, C. G. Fieldhouse departed for Neepawa also, both of the sons being present at the funeral on Monday.

In connection with the death of Mr. Fieldhouse, the Free Press says the following:--"During his long residence here Mr. Fieldhouse was always prominent in Methodist church work, especially in that of the Sunday school. He was one of the best posted men of Sunday school matters in the province and was prominent in large gatherings of Sunday school workers."

He was a notary public and well versed in court procedure, and his teaching on the bench was in accord with the best old-time traditions of the country. At one time Mr. Fieldhouse conducted a book store, but for the greater part of his time he was engaged in official life or in the notary public, conveyancing and real estate business.

He had a beautiful home here which he erected several years ago. Not long ago he lost his wife and he never fully recovered from the blow.

F.W. Colling Disposes of His Business

On Saturday last, Mr. F. R. Abneathy, formerly of Camrose, arrived here to take over the business of Frank Colling, who has been in the plumbing and tinship business here for the past two years. The deal was put through by which Mr. Abneathy takes over the entire business and good will.

Mr. Colling was among the early business men to locate in town and since his arrival has worked up a profitable business. His reasons for leaving Wainwright lay in the fact that he wished to move farther west and finally locate in the mountains. During the two years that Mr. Colling has been in town, he has formed a large circle of friends and acquaintances, with whom he has been universally popular. A strong lodge man, a patron of every social function and a warm friend, he will be greatly missed by many.

The Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian Church will give a ten cent tea, in the rooms adjoining the office of H. V. Fieldhouse on St. Patrick's Day, March 17th. The funds will go towards the purchase of a new organ for the church.

Howard Douglas, Commissioner of Dominion Parks, who recently returned from Montana, states that the remaining eighty outlaw buffaloes will be shipped to Wainwright Park about March 14th.

Another Way To Bring In The Settlers

Real Estate and Moving Picture Agents Giving Canada Great Publicity in Foreign Lands by Pictures of Farm Life in Canada--Influential to Emigrants.

As a sample of what the moving picture machine is capable of doing, the following is certainly one way in which it serves the real estate man doing business in foreign lands. At the present time in Norway and Sweden, moving picture companies, in which Canadian real estate agents are interested, are putting on shows, in which their pictures are entirely Canadian. In these pictures, Canadian life is shown in reality and there is no doubt whatever in the minds of prospect emigrants as to the true conditions in this country. They do not rely upon the advertising matter, scattered throughout their country--they can see it on the lantern screen. The result of such a scheme to induce settlers to Canada has resulted in the authorities taking the matter in hand and passing strict laws against such campaigns. Special inducements are also being made to keep the native at home, but even so, the check that possible settlers are receiving is not sufficient to overcome the influence that the motion picture machine has produced. It would certainly be better if all advertising campaigns could be as convincing as this system.

There is every indication of an early spring as evidenced a week ago, when a few chicken hawks from the south were seen near the town. This, together with the weather which has recently been experienced, points to an early spring.

During the coming year, the Dominion Government expects to bring upwards of 100,000 Irish settlers into Canada. In much greater proportion, Irish immigration has been into the United States of late years.

Drainage Necessary on Main Street

The last few days have been exceedingly warm and the slight wind accompanying such weather has resulted in almost the entire disappearance of Nature's winter robe. The streets of the town are in a very sloppy condition and it is plain that the Streets Committee of the council should see that the surface water on Main St. and Second Avenue is drained off and traffic made easier.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Price of Edgerton are spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Issted.

C. C. Society Had Enjoyable Evening

The drive, given by the members of the C. C. society on Tuesday evening was a most enjoyable affair, upwards of twenty making up the party. After the drive, a very social and enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Phillips.

The Ladies Aid Society of Grace Methodist Church will hold their Monthly At Home on Wednesday March 22nd, at the home of Mrs. Issted.

Board of Trade May Enter Publicity League

Central Alberta Development League Urges Wainwright Board of Trade to Co-operate with Them in Publicity Campaigns for Districts of Northern Alberta

The second meeting of the newly elected Board of Trade was held in the Club rooms on Friday night last, when complete arrangements were made for the first business man's banquet in the town.

Several letters of enquiry from outside business men were read by Sec. King. These letters like numerous ones received by the Board of Trade, were in reference to business openings in the town. Pres. Lally also read a letter from Richardson & Son, in which it was stated that a proposal had been made to George Richardson to re-open the elevator here. The secretary read letters from Howard Douglas and J. M. Hazelton of the International Securities Co., in reference to their attendance at the banquet. Both would no doubt be here when the date was set.

The Edmonton Board of Trade a short time ago started a league for Alberta, known as the Central Alberta Development League, in which it was intended to include all the towns and districts tributary to the capital. Representatives from all these towns and districts had met in Edmonton and arranged for a publicity campaign. In order for this league to operate, it was necessary to pay an entrance fee, twenty five cents per capita or $250. A motion in this connection was put through that the local Board should not enter now but should keep the scheme in view for the immediate future.

M. L. Forster, proprietor of the Wainwright Hotel, being present, the matter of the business man's banquet was brought up and advice received from him. In all probability the dinner will be held towards the close of the present month, after Mr. Hinton returns from the coast and when he can attend the affair. The reasons for the Board having the banquet at the Wainwright Hotel lay in the fact that this is the oldest hotel in the town and the decision that it should be held at the Park Hotel next year.

Probably Best Show ever in Town

It has been some time, in the history of theatrical attractions in the town, that the local theatre-goers have received such a treat as the Korny-Harvey entertainers presented on Thursday evening last. From the rise of the curtain, the packed house either in constant laughter or showing their appreciation in hearty applause. Miss Doring, the American Violiniste, played the violin and piano to great effect and received many encores, her selections were certainly of the highest class. Miss Crowsley, another member of the company, possessed a rich, contralto voice and also played her critical audience. From both Korny and Harvey, the theatre-goers received the highest kind of refined fun. Few times in the past, if ever, have any two impersonators appeared on the Wainwright stage and rendered such popular humor. Between the two, it would be difficult to choose the better.

WHEN TWO REMNANTS MAKE ONE GOWN

Striped Marquisette and Black Satin

Velvet and Satin in Brown

Chiffon and Broadcloth Combined

VERILY, this season should be the paradise of the remnant-hunter; for never before has it been possible to fashion such stunning gowns out of short ends, provided there be enough of the two fabrics together to provide a narrow skirt and a draped bodice. Neither fabric nor color need match, and gowns that look as if they came from the ateliers of Paris come really from the storeroom boxes and the bargain counter.

Let us see how it is done: Take, for instance, the combination of black and gray striped marquisette and black satin. The satin forms a deep hem and a front panel on the skirt, and is used in the blouse in a broad bib effect, buttoned and extending to the lace chemise. The puffed sleeves, the sides and back of the blouse and skirt are of the marquisette mounted over black.

Another effect with the ever-popular satin is shown in the Persian chiffon gown. The Persian here is draped over satin and appears as the bolero portion of the blouse and as the upper half of the banded skirt, besides the pipings on collar, cuffs and girdle. The buttons on the satin skirtband and on the tabs run down from the low collar are especially chic.

The two prime favorites in fabric, satin and velvet, are combined in the smart frock of rich brown. The velvet here is shown in a fishtail bib, in triangular tabs on the sleeves and in a knee-high applied hem. All of these are trimmed by crocheted silk buttons. The round yoke is heavily embroidered in brown.

In two shades of brown is the chiffon and broadcloth gown: its blouse of brown chiffon draped over coffee-colored embroidery, its draped skirt of soft brown broadcloth with satin binding. The brown "wood" embroidery on the blouse gives a suggestion of the return of the suspender style to popularity.

Silk net and Henrietta in the same shade of deep amethyst form the fetching evening gown with the shirred plastron at the girdle and the rounded tunic. The net is pleated to form the blouse, and over all but the front strip is draped delicate chiffon of the same beautiful color.

How the two materials may be combined for business or morning wear is shown in the smart frock of dark green serge and plaid taffeta. The serge forms the tailored skirt and the cut yoke and cuffs. The blouse itself is entirely of the silk, laid in broad vertical tucks.

To the economical woman, and to her who is fond of novel effects, alike, these gowns of two materials will be enticing.
